About NALSAR

The National Academy of Legal Studies and Research (NALSAR), established in 1998 by a statute of the State of Andhra Pradesh, has been a hub for critical discussions on law and justice since its inception. Recognizing that issues of justice permeate all areas of legal practice—whether in courts, corporations, education, or administration, the University has championed the use of law as a tool for social change.

Being counted among the top law schools in India officially recognised by NAAC, it attracts students from across the country and faculty from both India and abroad. While proud of its standing, the University does not let rankings define its identity. Throughout its existence, NALSAR has consistently explored innovative strategies to foster a vibrant academic environment, continually reflecting on its successes and challenges in pursuit of its goals.
